My name will be announced in the Wood county Republican convention as a candidate for the office of Recorder, and I will appreciate the support and good will of all Republicans and citizens of the county.

FRED C. EBERLY,
Perryburg, O.

I want to be County Recorder. I hope to secure enough Republicans who entertain a similar view to win the nomination. I am in favor of a primary to select the nominees. All favors shown will be reciprocated.

C. E. WAY,
North Baltimore, O.

Republican voters of Wood county, I am a candidate for the nomination of Recorder. I worked hard for the Primary election. It has been adopted, and every voter can vote for his choice of candidates. I would like your assistance and vote.

To my Republican friends of Perryburg and northern Wood county:

I want to be the next County Recorder. The nomination will be made by primary election. Each Republican can vote in his own precinct direct for the candidate of his choice. As I may not be able to see each of you personally, I take this method of saying to you that I will be greatly pleased to have your vote and influence for this office.

Thanking you in advance for any favors shown me I am,

Most Respectfully,
LESTER D. HILL.

I will be a candidate for the nomination for County Recorder at the Republican primary election, and I will appreciate your support.

JOE F. REED,

The rate bill went to conference on crutches and it promises to come back on a stretcher.

It is an ill wind that blows nobody good. But sometimes a south breeze can make everybody tired.

The Bryan boom has escaped one handicap so far. It has not had any endorsement from Princeton.

Mr. Hearst ought to remember that his prospective running mate can at least tell him a lot of things to avoid.

That frost which affected the peach crop is thought to have gotten in its work on several early presidential booms also.

If Upton Sinclair got nothing else out of it, he at least has the satisfaction of knowing that he started all the trouble.

In view of the recent disclosures, it is to be presumed that much of the Chicago meat had reached the phosphorescent stage.

Mr. Bryan is now in a position to assert that there is no truth in the report that the Democratic party will nominate Mr. Roosevelt in 1908.

The report of the committee gives the lie direct to the insinuation that the Senate was never going to get round to a consideration of the Smoot case.

Gen. Mile's declaration that the packing houses were rotten seven years ago may have been all right. Only he didn't then have the documents to prove it.

The people of Panama have one consolation. However their election comes out, they will be able to point with pride to some elections up here that have gone them several worse.

The lady who is always writing about European royalty says that the sovereigns are all ambidextrous. This evidently is a precaution to enable them to ward off bouquets with either hand.

The Department of Agriculture has now found out what sort of butter spoils the soonest. They ought to have time to investigate the passe egg before the next theatrical season opens.

All the railroad officials who had harrowing confessions to make seem to have gone to Philadelphia to make them, probably in the belief that nothing was bad enough to shock Philadelphia.

Secretary Shaw ought to get that Pennsylvania railroad young man to come to Washington and show the improvident government clerk how to save $57,000 a year on a salary of $120 a month.

If Senator Smoot had known that women were going to be the cause of his downfall in the end, he might just as well have been a polygamist all along and had a few of them to sympathize with him anyhow.

At the suggestion of several Maine members of the House, the Republican State committee has invited Ralph D. Cole of Findlay to speak in the Maine campaign. As the election in Maine takes place September 12, the campaign in the state will be about a month earlier than the Ohio campaign. This will make it possible for Mr. Cole to take part in both campaigns as he can return to Ohio when things warm up at home. The invitation is considered a tribute to the ability of the young member from Ohio.

In passing judgment upon those who may be accused of wrong doing it is always well to withhold criticism until all the facts in the case are brought out. This is especially true in the case of Surveyor Spaford. We believe if he has made mistakes they were not wilfully made. He has always borne a good reputation. He is a competent official, and we shall not believe him wilfully dishonest until the charge is proven in court, and until that time we believe it is right and just to suspend judgment.

ZINGG-CORNELIUS WEDDING

At 5:30 o'clock p. m., Tuesday, June 19, 1906, Rev. J. H. Kieskamp pronounced the words that united the hearts and hands of Frank Zingg and Miss Tillie Cornelius, at the residence of the reverend gentleman.

The ceremony was witnessed by Miss Lida Zingg and Fred Zingg, brother and sister of the groom.

Immediately after the wedding a dinner was served at the home of the bride's mother to which only immediate relatives were invited, after which they started on a bridal trip.

The bride was attired in a charming costume of Alice blue and white.

The bride and groom are well known and popular and have a large circle of friends who extend hearty congratulations for future happiness and success.

They will reside at the home of the groom's father for a few weeks until their own home is completed.

Kind of Him.

"No, dear," said he, "I don't intend to have you do your own work after we are married."

"Is that so, dear?" she cooed.

"Yes," he went on, "I have just been looking up your business affairs and I find that you are perfectly able to keep a hired girl."—Detroit Free Press.

THE SPANIARD.

His Courtesy, His Cigarette and His Lottery Ticket.

Of the courteous manners of all Spaniards a traveler writes: "So anxious is every one to be of service to others that the stranger is apt to consider the Spaniards very inquisitive people. An experience in a Madrid tramcar was enlightening in this direction. A woman in getting into the car appeared to have slipped and hurt her foot. She and her husband began an animated discussion upon the incident, and of the dozen others in the car every one except ourselves craned forward to listen. The passengers were well assorted, ranging as they did from a captain in uniform down to a woman almost of the beggar class. But one and all in turn joined in the discussion without exciting the least resentment, opinions being apparently welcomed. Gentlemen arriving at their destination ceased arguing, raised their hats and went out, leaving others in possession until the principals left."

"There is no hour of the day or night which a Spaniard deems inappropriate to the practice of smoking," the same writer observes. "Whenever he finds time hanging heavily, which is frequently, he lights a cigarette. Time hangs heavily on a Spaniard's mind in the brief interval between the courses at lunch and dinner, whenever he wakes at night, when traveling between station and hotel in an omnibus and always when in a railway train, regardless of ladies. The practice of smoking is so universal in Spain that railway compartments for nonsmokers exist in theory only, and the habit, combined with that of loud talking at all hours of the night and morning, makes the average Spaniard undesirable as a traveling companion, especially at night."

Of the sturdy beggars who overrun Madrid: "The beggars usually have some pretense for asking alms in the shape of a decrepit guitar or fiddle under the cloak, where it remains. Another plea is the sale of lottery tickets, the lottery being a great institution in Spain. Each ticket costs 5 pesetas (about $1), and beggars in absolute rags, as often as not children, rush about with strings of these for sale."—Chicago News.

Some Famous Retorts Made During the Heat of Debate.

One of the most famous of Reed's retorts was made at the expense of Springer of Illinois. The "Maine giant" had just read one of Springer's own speeches in refutation of the latter's argument just concluded. The Illinoisan launched into philosophy upon the privilege of progressive thinkers to change their opinions.

"I honor them for it," he continued. "An honest man is the noblest work of God. As for me, Mr. Chairman, in the words of an eminent American statesman, 'I would rather be right than be president.'"

"The gentleman from Illinois needn't worry, Mr. Chairman," drawled Reed. "He'll never be either!"

During the bitter fight against "Reed rules" the house was thrown into convulsions by General Spinola, who, pointing to the painting of the "Siege of Yorktown" hanging in the hall, gravely accused Speaker Reed of counting the Hessians in the background of the picture in order to make up a quorum.

The general always wore a tremendously high collar, so high, in fact, that Representative Tim Campbell tapped it one day with the ferrule of his cane and inquired, to the amusement of the house, "Is General Spinola within?"

During the famous deadlock fight in the house over the civil rights bill General Ben Butler favored a Sunday session.

"Bad as I am, I have some respect for God's day," replied Sam Randall of Pennsylvania.

"Don't the Bible say that it is lawful to pull your ox or ass out of a pit on the Sabbath?" asked Butler. "You have thirty-seven asses on your side of the house, and I want to get them out of this ditch tomorrow. I think I am engaged in holy work."

"Don't do it," replied Randall. "I expect some day to see you in a better world."

"You'll be there, as you are here, a member of the lower house," flashed back the general, with telling effect.—American Magazine.

A Hundred Million Suns.

A peep into the heavens through a modern telescope is a peep into the very depths of mystery. With such an instrument one may gaze upon 100,000,000 stars, each of them a burning, blazing sun. From what little we know of creation we cannot but believe that each of those suns is giving light and heat to a train of planets, just in the same manner that our sun gives light and life to his little flock of worlds. Beyond those 100,000,000 suns there may be hundreds of millions more. Thus they may continue "system after system and worlds without end."

A Serious Breach.

Intimate Friend!—What was the breach of senatorial courtesy of which you accused Senator Grabbill? Senator Grafton (fiercely)—Why, the scandalous approach of the interests I represent and offered to work for 25 per cent less legal expenses than they're paying me! —Puck.

The Poet's Troubles.

Friend—What did you find the most difficult thing when you wrote your first verses? Poet—To find some one who would let me read them to him.—Fliegende Blätter.
